Latest update

May 2022. From his home in Canberra, A.C.T., Australia, Anthony writes:

Thank you to the many people who have been praying for me.

Last year in July I graduated with a degree in Biochemistry.

As of February this year, I have entered the workforce and am enjoying my job as a consultant.

I have resumed my passion of long distance running and am hoping to run a marathon in the near future.

Whilst my cancer journey will still be a long one, I am confident that the journey ahead is looking promising.

Here is a brief summary of what has been happening for me over the past few months...

Mid- July: Bone marrow transplant with a two-week hospital stay in an isolated room.

August - Oct: Recovering at home. This was a long, slow process.

Mid-October: Received good news: 'in remission'. Generally feel quite well and continuing with university studies (online). Have regular ongoing appointments with the haematologist
